HP2-Enduro

We discovered during our initial tests with the HP2 that the front mudguard support is vulnerable, especially in tough offroad terrain.

Also, the front indicators can get torn off quite easily, so we designed a support made of a 4 mm thick aluminium plate that absorbs even hard impacts and also allows the indicators to be moved further back and out of harm's way.

In addition to the original 6 mm bolts that hold the front construction we use clamp bolts to add rigidity and torsional strength to the whole front support. An additional bonus of these brackets is that they allow fitting of our Micro Flooter additional light sets.

Note: The front support set is already included with our Micro Flooter light set, so you could try the Front Support first and then add the lamps later. See the MictoFlooter set further on in this section for details.
