There' s no point in having a rear-view mirror on the bike unless you can actually see something in it. You can often see everything except the things the mirror was designed to show you. For a good view of the following traffic.

We have sorted this problem out and can move your mirror the required number of centimetres to bring it into the right position. With its custom fit and shapely design, the extension can be integrated into the series production design and is a big leap forward in safety erms.

The facts:

High-quality machined aluminium construction.
Precisely extends the mirror to the side.
Quick and easy fitting.
