The facts:

Maximum protection for head, upper body and arms.

Widened considerably at the bottom (transition to the protectors) to provide optimum protection for hands and arms.

At the top, the wide screen protects the head and upper body almost without any turbulence. Continuous height adjustment (height: 465 mm [18.3' '] to 525 mm [20.6' ']) thanks to a two-part screen construction.

Quick and easy adjustment (release lever and push up or down).

Adjustable to suit nearly all riders and riding styles.

Integrated flow channel: depending on the chosen height, the gap changes and a calming counter-flow of air reduces turbulence.

If required, the screen is simply adjusted down and the field of vision is immediately widened, and the wind can blow against the rider without obstruction.

Reduces "dancing" of rain water droplets on the visor (vacuum turbulence).

The design, based on our ERGO Touring Screen for the R 1200 GS, closes the gaps to the headlights and looks harmonious and imposing.

Very robust, optically pure and petrol-resistant Lexan plastic.

Available in transparent and smoky grey.

Easy and quick to fit.

The unique method of production permits the use of very complex forms to provide perfect protection from wind.

ABE approved.
